All wastewater from homes and buildings should drain into sanitary sewers or septic systems for transport to a treatment plant.

Make rainwater work for you by redirecting your downspouts to your lawn or garden.

Never connect your washing machine to your basement sump pump or drain; soap and bleach can harm your garden and local waterways.